ORIGIN

1. What appeared to be the largest maneuvers held in Austria since the end of the war took place early in October in the Doellersheim area; a minimum of six Russian divisions from Austria and Hungary participated. ~~Comment:~~ 25X1A6a
Gendarmerie officials at Zwettl (O 49/R 42) and Weitra (O 49/E 23) estimated troop strength at 110,000 to 120,000, but this may be somewhat exaggerated.]
2. The maneuvers extended beyond the Doellersheim training grounds as far as the Danube. Infantry, artillery, tank, and motorized units, as well as at least four hundred aircraft, participated in the mock battle: one Soviet force opposed a group referred to by officers as "the Americans." Colonel, General Kurasov, commanding general of the Central Group of forces, personally observed the maneuvers from a platform with members of his staff.
3. Troops which were observed advancing south-southwest in the Allentsteig-Schwarzenau area included the following:

Group Red(1) AA Units

4.7 cm AA guns with armor shield.

 Vehicle markings: R 3-32-xx
 R 3-33-xx

A major general of the Judge Advocate General department, with insignia on shoulder, was observed riding in a car with license R 3-37-94.

(2) Artillery

Calibers 7.62 to 17.2 cm.

Vehicle markings of Guards Artillery Units:

 R 3-76-xx
 R 3-77-xx
